Charles Grosvenor Osgood, one of the great Princetonians of this century, who—as he enters upon his 56th year as a resident of the Princeton Community—returns to Town Topics' cover with the establishment of four University fellowships honoring his contribution as a teacher and scholar. At this point in history, when America is searching long and hard (and often with a marked lack of success) for teachers of distinction, it is highly appropriate to have this 89-year old associate of Woodrow Wilson's singled out for his interest in the development of the individual human being.

Nearly a decade ago, and some 14 years after he had retired from active teaching, Osgood was prevailed upon to serve as Princeton's annual Phi Beta Kappa Lecturer. He selected "The Proper Study" as his topic and proceeded to define liberal education in terms of present-day needs. It was, and is, his conviction that men should "do their work and rethink their thoughts to new agreement on a scale not shortened to the quaint focus of this little life, but adjusted to the infinite reaches apprehended by the faith that transcends knowledge."

With what one observer called "the wisdom of a poet and philosopher," Osgood, a native of Wellsboro, Pa., accepted in 1905 the challenge Wilson offered to his original "preceptor guys" and proceeded to develop his famous "English Literature and the Classics," one of the early inter-departmental courses that helped oust confining formalism in favor of unifying programs of study. As a teacher beloved for his "open houses," and for his capacity for evoking discussion, Osgood inspired the sort of affection which led former students in 1941 to bring into being anonymously the Osgood Book Fund for the purchase of books in the University Library.

Osgood, for 15 years a Trustee of the Princeton Public Library and long a member of the New Jersey Library Commission, actually relinquished his teaching responsibilities two years early (in 1937) in order to devote more time to writing and research. Author of "The Voice of England," celebrated history of English literature, and "Poetry As a Means of Grace," he supervised the definitive edition of the works of poet Edmund Spenser. The first volume appeared in 1932, the eighth in 1947 and the index in 1956, shortly after Osgood celebrated his 85th birthday.

A member of the Yale Class of 1894, Osgood completed his graduate training at Yale and taught at both the University of Colorado and Yale before moving to Princeton in the summer of 1905. Elected to the rank of full professor in 1913, he served as chairman of the University's Department of English from 1918 until 1928 and seven years later, became the eighth incumbent of the Holmes Professorship of Belles Lettres, succeeding the late George McLean Harper as the occupant of Princeton's oldest endowed chair.

For understanding that the Western World needs teachers who, "however learned and expert, transcend their specialty with a constant sense of its final value in human terms"; for seeing that vocationalism, specialization and the splintering of knowledge contribute little to the ongoing development of liberal education; for exemplary service to his fellow men; he is Town Topics' nominee for

URBAN RENEWAL DELAYED

Indefinitely by Court Action. In a decision of far-reaching implications that may radically alter future development of the heart of the Borough, The State Supreme Court this week placed a total block on Princeton's plans for a progressive Urban Renewal program.

The Court declared invalid a resolution passed 18 months ago by Borough Council which designated a portion of the Hollis-John-Green-Witherspoon Street area as "blighted." The decision renders temporarily useless to the municipality some five years of planning and, inasmuch as no new action can be taken before the present personnel of the governing body expires in 1961, delays new action for the better part of a year.

Although the situation has not been fully studied by either the Housing Authority or the Bor-

—ROHM N. KANDL

Naturally, the Men was being tossed a good deal about the chances of fair weather for the year's second big three-day weekend. His mood was guardedly optimistic.

Thursday and Friday would hardly be dealt out of the top drawer, he commented, what with heat, humidity and showers chasing each other across the countryside. Beginning Saturday, however, matters are expected to take a turn for the better, with generally fair weather expected — temperature still a few degrees above normal.

ough Council, the court ruling may be near-fatal to the urban renewal project, since the area must be classed as "blighted" by Council before Federal funds are forthcoming. In addition to this direct consequence, the decision has important implications for both the governing body of the municipality and the University.

The unanimous ruling of the court set aside Council's action of December 1958 on the basis of conflict of interest. It said that the vote was invalid because two Princeton University Professors, Councilmen Richard A. Lester and Alfred E. Sorenson, supported the action when the University stood in gain indirectly by the urban renewal project via its controlling interest in Princeton Municipal Improvement Inc., a property holder in the area.

Because of the Independence Day holiday Monday.

Town Topics' deadline for all display advertising for next week's issue will be Friday at 5 p.m.

At the time, Councilmen Dan
D. Coyle and Richard Colmen, both employees of the University, abstained from voting on the issue, but the two professors registered their affirmative opinions, claiming academic freedom from the conflict of interest clause. Although not questioning motivations of the two professors, the court held that "the long standing association which gives these men security in their positions could tend to bind their loyalties to the University in such a manner that they would be interested in all matters affecting the institution."

The court also closed a possible loophole by which the Council could have acted on the matter of urban renewal. In the opinion, written by Justice Albert E. Burling, it said that the vote was not of "such vital importance" as to permit an exception to the conflict of interest regulation.

Urban Renewal Stalled. The
upshot of the decision is that "it appears that urban renewal will have to mark time at least for the foreseeable future," according to one Council member. Little can be done on the project, which has been planned for the past five years, until the Council can, somehow, legally designate the area as "blighted."

Apparently, it will be difficult to do this, at least before next January. To take any action, Council requires a quorum of at least four members, and under the present situation of four councilmen with University affiliation, there is no way one can be obtained without at least two of these members expressing an opinion. It is questionable whether one with two University men opposing urban renewal and the mayor breaking the tie, would be acceptable, so the solution is to wait, as the court put it, "until the Council is free to act." This would be after New Year's Day, when the proportions will be changed.

The court decision could also quite possibly have far reaching

Implications for Borough Council. It calls into question actions of Council with regard to the University itself or any organizations in which the University has a large interest.

Recognizing such problems, the opinion admitted that the decision may limit the number of University employees who can "safely" hold municipal offices. "This could exclude from participation in local government persons unusually qualified for such service; it is safe to assume that such participation by the persons whose interests we hold here to be disqualifying was in fact motivated by a high sense of responsibility for community affairs. But the application of the basic principle here involved cannot depend upon an appraisal of the nature of the institution concerned or of the character of the individual officeholders," it stated.

Since Councilmen Lester and Sorenson are not seeking re-election in November, and only one University employee, Robert W. Van De Velde, is a candidate, the situation cannot but be rectified then. In the future, however, the Borough (and quite possibly the Township as well) will have to keep the number of University employees under four if it is to avoid problems.

Alumni, Too? At the same time, the decision, calls into question the University's position in such matters. Since a professor with tenure cannot be discharged, and is thus in a slightly different situation from a normal employee, there is a question of where this will stop.

The opinion notes a case (Zell vs. Borough of Roseland) in which a planning board member was disqualified from voting on a matter affecting the church of which he was a member. Could not alumni officers and class officers thus come under the conflict of interest regulation?

It should be noted that the Court did find in favor of the Borough on three procedural counts, involving the method of notification, the timing of the original action and the necessity for a public hearing by the Council after one was held by the Planning Board. It failed to rule on whether or not the actual determination of "blight" was a conflict of interest on the Council.

The case against the Borough, instituted last October by property owners in the affected area, was argued by Charles R. Sperling, Ralph S. Mason and John F. McCarthy Jr., the Mayor and Council, and Richard J. Casey, the Planning Board. Judge Arthur Lane of the Superior Court supported the University, and the Supreme Court was acting on the appeal. Owing to a legal technicality, the Superior Court will actually have to make the final ruling, but will be under directions from the Supreme Court.

ROUND UP

The thermometer was being edged upward during the past ten days, with only one maximum reading during that time below 80... however, this is cool in comparison to the final week of June 1959, when five consecutive trips above 90, plus high humidity, were recorded... last Friday's thunder and wind storm produced a quarter of an inch of rain within five minutes shortly

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, June 23, 1950: A world war aged was shaken by Communist invasion of South Korea and this country's immediate decision to contest the crossing of the 38th parallel. TOWN TOPICS had this to say:

"The Sky Darkens: All of a sudden, Korea was a part of Nassau Street. It wasn't necessary to be an expert in international relations to see how clear the implications were: Russian-dominated forces had made an independent nation half-way round the world and President Truman, backed by the UN, had resorted to armed intervention to call their bluff. Less than five short years after World War II had ended, the two giants who had emerged the victors were face to face, snarling their dislike for the other's way of life."

Richard A. Hogarty, 16-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hogarty, 15 Chestnut Street, won a one-sided victory in the state-wide contest for "Boy-Governor of New Jersey" at the annual Boys' State convention in New Brunswick... a parade was scheduled to wind through the town to Palmer Stadium as the fore-runner of the annual fireworks display... Theodore Potts began to accept rental applications for the $3 million shopping center in Princeton Township, announcing that Princeton would be broken in July.

Because so many street signs were being stolen by the romantically inclined, Township Committee Chairman B. Franklin Bunn suggested that Lovers Lane be renamed... he advocated that it become an extension of Olden Lane, but the protests favoring retention of Lovers Lane were such that the economy-minded committee bowed to popular fancy.

SEMINARY PLAN OPPOSED

Residents Hill Housing Project. A determined group of residents of North Road objected strenuously to the Princeton Theological Seminary plan for a housing project in the area at Monday night's meeting of the Township Board of Adjustment. After two and a half hours of discussion which resembled court proceeding, Board chairman Leonard G. Johnson agreed to continue the matter at the next regular meeting of the Board, set for July 25.

Under fire was a 42-unit project on the Seminary-owned 92 acres on the Great Road between North Road and Rosedale Road. The project, which would be the first step towards a 100 to 150-unit housing development and "apartments," would be in the corner of the property nearest North Road.

In order to proceed with its plans, the Seminary requires both a special permit to use the land, which lies largely in the B-1 zoning district, for "educational" purpose, and variances in the zoning ordinance for the B-1 district to put up the five, two-story, multiple-family units it proposes. The Seminary requested the Board to grant the former and to give a favorable recommendation on the latter to the Township Committee, which must take the final decision with regard to the variances.

J. Seymour Montgomery, representing an eight-family hard core of opposition, made both the successful motion to continue the hearing and a motion for dismissal, which was not granted. He tried to show how the project conflicted with numerous points of the zoning ordinance, claiming that the principle is whether the public "benefits" from the zoning ordinance to protect their investment in property."

Mr. Montgomery picked at the presentation of the Seminary's case by lawyer Henry Stratton, asking questions with regard to the type of heating planned, source of utilities, exact time schedule and plans for the remainder of the plot, screening by trees and provisions for laundry. The ten Township residents speaking against the project, seven of whom were members of the group represented by Mr. Montgomery, raised questions concerning the way in which utilities would be brought in, increases in school-going population and payments to the Township by the Seminary.

The group for which Mr. Montgomery spoke includes Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Woodbridge, Mr. and Mrs. G. Victor Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Aal, all of North, Road; Mr. and Mrs. William Bonthron, the Great Road; and Mr. and Mrs. David H. McAlpin, Pretty Brook Road. Others opposing the project at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Fleming, Pretty Brook Road and Mrs. Henry Smyth, Lafayette Road West.

Seminary's Case. On the other side, the Seminary's case was presented by Henry Stratton, with testimony from the architect, landscape architect and Seminary President John J. McCord. Mr. Stratton stressed that the site would be the "most satisfactory" solution to the "critical and urgent" need to expand the Seminary's facilities. Dr. McCord explained that the housing units, which would be for both students and young faculty members, were necessitated by the increased enrollment since the war and, at the same time, the larger percentage of married students. He pointed out that the unified development of the plot, allowing large green areas would be preferable to subdividing it.

The specific variances required by the seminary to build the proposed units involve the prohibition of more than one building on a lot (it does not propose to subdivide) and the yard and height requirements, which Mr. Stratton claimed were not designed for multiple-family units. He noted, however, that the buildings would be separated by at least 45 feet and will be set back from any property lines by at least 125 feet. Other variances required concern the prohibition against look-alike buildings and the floor area requirements. In general, Mr. Stratton claimed that these requirements were "unreal and unreasonable" when applied to multiple-family units.

PLANS COMPLETED

For Fireworks Display. Plans have been completed for the annual Fourth of July Fireworks display to be held in Palmer Stadium on Monday, July 4. Nathaniel McKee, general chairman of the committee, reported the admission for adults will be $1, while children under 12 will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

American Legion Post 458 "Sentrys", an all-girl drum and bugle corps, will supply music from 8 p.m. until it is sufficiently dark to begin the fireworks. Under the direction of James Whitlow and Harold Hinkson Jr., the color guard team of Post 76, American Legion, will present the colors preceding the display. Refreshments will be available.

July Fourth Warning

Princeton Borough Police Chief Raymond Mondone has warned all to keep the Fourth of July safe. "Since it is a direct violation of State law to sell, possess or discharge fireworks," the Chief said, "we do not expect children or adults to use fireworks of any kind during the Fourth."

"Our town," Chief Mondone declared, "is fortunate to have a supervised fireworks display at the Stadium to satisfy the pleasure of its citizens. We realize," the Chief continued, "that fireworks are imported from other states where sale is legal, but we absolutely forbid the use of fireworks in this town."

Vendors are warned that the law prohibits the offer for sale of any blank cartridge, toy pistol, toy cannon or toy gun in which explosives are used. Likewise the use of firecrackers, torpedoes, sky rockets, Roman candles, bombs, sparklers, or other fireworks containing explosive or inflammable compound is prohibited.

Players Seeking Home

The Community Players announced this week that their lease of the Alexander Street Playmill will terminate this Thursday and a new home is being sought. The dramatic organization, now in its third decade on the Princeton scene, must curtail its activities but by no means plans to cease producing plays entirely.

A letter to its membership declared: "Little Orphan Annie that we are, we refuse to die and are already formulating plans for producing a show in McCarter Theatre for one or two nights in December as a benefit for some community cause. We are also trying to organize support among other artistic community organizations for a Center of Performing Arts which could be erected on land that has been willed to the Township for recreational purposes."

The need for financial reinforcement was cited by Mrs. Foster Andrews, Players' president, as the reason for the move. Storage space—for sets, costumes, lights and furniture—is the organization's immediate goal.

News Of The THEATRES

PLAYERS OPEN SEASON

"Epitaph" is Well Received. The University Players, which opened its 1960 season on Saturday to a full house in Murray Theatre, is part and parcel of one of Princeton's finest traditions in the entertainment world, and a crux of its success would seem to lie in the fact of Murray Theatre itself, its size, shape, history and character which make an exceptionally good frame for complete dramatic illusion.

Geishens' is the cry of our generation, you will find plenty of that cohesive quality here in the possibility of total participation between actors and audience in an intimate theatre.

Moreover, there is real satisfaction in those physical prerequisites to enjoyment of an evening at the theatre with new artificially air-cooled and comfortable atmosphere in the playhouse and the promise of fresh-air-cooled entrances, the breezeway or at tables under the trees where the fireflies blink on and off over one of the loveliest vistas of the campus. This positive set-up has attracted a talented and fearless group of players who are carrying on the tradition of challenging productions, a tradition which has gathered strength through the years from the Theatre Intime, the Community Players, visiting troupes and distinguished guest directors as well as from these familiar summer incumbents who are now initiating their 32nd season with "Epitaph For George Dillon" by John Osborne and Anthony Creighton. Direction of this first play is under David Sawyer whose "Waiting For Godot" was acclaimed last year and who is in his third year of association with the University Players.

"Epitaph" has been dubbed "controversial", "off-beat", "experimental" and any number of conflicting adjectives, but in spite of all of them, it solidly stands as a vital piece of dramatic accomplishment. Its argument concerns the problem of a creative artist whose lack of physical and moral fortitude undoes him and catches him completely in the very web he has tried to escape. Realizing it, he spells out his own epitaph which is a living hell he must endure.

The stage set, the furnishings, the details and sound effects are vital to the action, the irony, the comedy and the meaning of the plot. Therefore, this play relies heavily upon production and on this score the accolades are unreserved.

Set Enhances the Mood. An active and imaginative staff under Dale Bell has ingeniously contrived maximum acting space on a tiny stage by presenting the Elliot's living room as though seen through an open corner, a perspective which gives the illusion of being enclosed within four walls and magnifies the intensity of the atmosphere as it reaches out and overwhelms the main character. In this dreary house live dreary, unhappy people, each one absorbed in the horrid confines of his own despair or ignorance, bitterness, sorrow, hate or disappointment and linked together only by economic necessity.

Into this scene comes George Dillon whose leech-like need of these people does not prevent him from despising, disparaging, betraying them, and after struggling to extricate himself, he is defeated by his own physical weakness and his own moral lassitude into total submission. An unlovely situation with unlovely characters who are portrayed with no compromise or kindness by a good cast, many of whom come under the new Equity Company status which brings actors from other American theatres.

Clifford Davis, a member of Actor's Studio, takes the title role of George and more than justifies the admonition of a production note that "sympathy must not be wasted on him." From his first blatant curtain line to his final angry frustration, he is an unloved character who is truly no more than "agonizing bubbles of personality, then phut!"

His best scenes were the duologues with Ruth, played by Esther Benson. As the only person who could intellectually understand this "angry young man", Ruth nevertheless ends up by ex-poising him with tense and dramatic effect.

TWO SIDES OF THE TRIANGLE: Jack Lemmon, owner of a busy apartment, has words for Shirley MacLaine, who is also the object of Fred MacMurray's affections, in "The Apartment" at the Playhouse.

Audrey Ward as the mother who wraps George in protective excuses and substitutes him for her lost son in the vacuum of her life, gave a telling but nervous performance. Peggy Pope provided much-needed comic relief in her unbelievably good characterization of Norah whose life has been beaten out of her, leaving her colorless, awkward, depressed, "just a hole in the air." Other hit parts were handled reasonably well by Richard Hudson as Mr. Colwyn-Stuart, Roy Bacon as Mr. Webb and Frederick Royal whose stock character of the promoter was rather overdone in spite of the fact that his red bow tie and brass buttons were appreciated, costume-wise.

Battis, Peggy Allison Excel. Two of the finest performances can be claimed by two of Princeton's familiar actors. Emory Battis as Percy, appears in his third excellent role of the year (Don Juan in Hell, Age of Anxiety). With consummate skill, he has his drawn Percy into a vivid, complete character and he is largely responsible for one of the great scenes which occurs when he and George spar with the teeter-toed Colwyn-Stuart who tries in vain to sell them his brand of faith.

What Mr. Battis can do with a match stick, a steady eye or a dead silence speaks louder than words! Peggy Allison, well known on all Princeton stages, creates unforgotably that empty minded, egotistical, perennial teen-ager Joise who gyrates in and out of tapered slacks and never knows what it's all about.

Because of the unique pace and less than a peak performance, this opening night will not have been "Epiphany's" best showing of the run, but in any case, it was good and stimulating theatre and as bid by the management, we shall go back again and bring our friends.

"UNDERPANTS" TO APPEAR
Second Offering by Players. "The Underpants," a comedy detailing just what happens when an undergarment once considered unmentionable is lost at a parade for the Kaiser, will be the University Players' second offering of the season. The farce will run Tuesday through Sunday, July 5-10, at Murray Theatre.

Peggy Pope and Gerald Hiken will star in the American premiere of the Carl Sternheim comedy, which has been translated and adapted from the German by Eric Bentley. Miss Pope, seen as Norah Elliot in the Players' current production of "Epiphany for George Dillon," has appeared both at the City Center in New York and on television. Mr. Hiken, who has acted on Broadway and in television productions, will make his first appearance with the Players.

Roger Graef will make his Princeton debut as director of "The Underpants." He has served as acting instructor for the American Shakespeare Festival at Stratford and directed last summer's tour of "Intimate Relations" and "The Moon is Blue."

TIMELY COMEDY SET

For Bucks County Playhouse. An updated version of the 1946 Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy "State of the Union" will open for two weeks at the Bucks County Playhouse July 4. The Democratic Convention preliminary which concerns selection of a presidential candidate will star Faye Emerson, with John Dargrey, Sloan Simpson and Fredrick Tozzer.

Producer Michael Ellis' revision of the play has been approved by playwrights, Lindsay and Crouse, and will be the only production permitted anywhere this summer. Robert Caldwell, a Playhouse regular, will direct the comedy. Carol Bruce in "Petticoat Fever" is at New Hope through Saturday.

2ND WEEK FOR REDHEAD
At Lambertville, "Redhead" enters its second week at St. John Terrell's Music Circus, Lambertville, next Tuesday. The Broadway musical comedy hit stars June Erierson, who has played Shakespearean comedies was starring for July Holiday in "Belts Are Ringing" and has sung at the Reuben Bleu, the Downstairs Room and the Blue Angel in New York.

Appearing with Miss Erierson are Art Matthews, William Pearson and Linda King. The Louis MacMillan production will continue at the Music Circus through July 10.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Apartment (June 29-July 5) is one of those light-but-serious affairs blessed with a spicy script and top performers. From an adult standpoint, the dialogue and situations are heartwarming, while both comedy and pathos are well portrayed by Jack Lemmon, Shirley MacLaine and Fred MacMurray.

True to its name, the plot revolves around an apartment, inhabited by Lemmon but loaned out to his insurance company bosses for activities which are —Continued on Page 8 definitely outside the line of business. Enter Miss MacLaine, elevator operator in the apartment house, and MacMurray, Lemmon's boss who uses the apartment for his extra-marital activities, and the situation is set.

These ingredients are ably produced and directed by Billy Wilder, who collaborated on the screenplay with I.A.L. Diamond. The cast is rounded out by Ray Walston, David Lewis, Jack Kruschen, Joan Shawler, Edie Adams, Naomi Stevens and Hope Stevens. Music for the Panavision production was composed by Adolph Deutsch.

The Rat Race (July 6-12) proves that the timeworn story of country boy and city girl can still be tolerably interesting. The only reason for a decent result from such hackneyed material is that the country boy happens to be Tony Curtis this third appearance on a Princeton screen in the past month) and Debbie Reynolds.

Given Curtis as a musician from Milwaukee trying his luck in New York and Miss Reynolds as a dance contest winner turned dance hall hostess in Manhattan, the average movie-goer should be able to fill in the remainder of the plot. "The Rat Race" is saved from certain death, however, by the performances of the two stars; the direction of Robert Mulligan; and the music of Elmer Bernstein, rendered by such top musicians as Joe Buskin, Sam Butera and Gerry Mulligan. The whole thing is further improved by the touches added by the lesser actors: Jack Oakie, as the friendly bartender; May Medford, owner of a cheap rooming house; and Don Rickles, the dance-hall operator.

In short, it is one of those productions which can be acceptable despite the unoriginal plot.

THE GARDEN

Some Like It Hot (June 27-July 2), which appeared at the Playhouse just a year ago, turned out to be one of the best comedies of 1959. A wild, star-studded farce, it features Marilyn Monroe, Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon, with smaller roles filled by Joe E. Brown, George Raft and Pat O'Brien. The entire plot involves the fact that Lemmon and Curtis find it necessary to join an all-girl band in order to escape gangland vengeance (the scene is Chicago in the 1920's), but Billy Wilder's sparkling direction has turned it into a vehicle of rare humor.

The acting of the principals is fine, and Miss Monroe, as Sugar Kane, the band's vocalist, again shows her intuitive talent for light comedy. While this department holds no brief for most female impersonators, the handling of the gimmick in this film should offend no one.

"Some Like It Hot" is a series of funny scenes, the best of which is probably Wilder's hilarious re-enactment of the St. Valentine's Day massacre, with George Raft leading the gunmen. The fact that this scene comes off as perfectly as it does is the highest tribute to everyone connected with this outstanding picture. Recommended.

A Summer Place (July 4-6) features Richard Egan, Dorothy McGuire, Sandra Dee, Arthur Kennedy and Constance Ford in a brutally frank saga of extra- and pre-marital love and lust.

ROMANTIC DUO: Tony Curtis and Debbie Reynolds in "The Rat Race," now showing at Lawrence Drive-In.

a lot of pertinent moral questions but fails to come up with very satisfactory answers. In Technicolor, the film is an adaptation of the best-seller of the same name by Sloan ("The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit") Wilson.

Miss McGuire and Egan were lovers in their youth when he was a lifeguard at the exclusive resort where her wealthy family spent the summers. They married other people and had one child each; conveniently, one girl (Sandra Dee) and one boy (Troy Donahue). Now the situations are reversed: Egan is wealthy and he brings his family to the inn operated by Miss McGuire and spouse, who are in somewhat straitened circumstances. In a word, Miss Dee's dad and Donahue's mom realize they were meant for each other all along, have an affair, get divorces and marry each other. Meanwhile, the youngsters themselves fall in love and marry after it is discovered that Miss Dee is going to have a baby. Performances are generally good despite the shallowness of the screenplay.

"A Summer Place" appeared at the Playhouse last December. Beginning with this production and running throughout the summer, the Garden will discontinue matinees except at 3 p.m. Saturdays.

NO ROSDALE SEWER

Committee Down Proposal 3-0. The Township Committee has voted down the Rosedale Road sewer project which aroused such vigorous opposition from residents of the area. At a special meeting last week, it gave up the project for a line from Galbreath Drive East to Galbreath Drive West, by a vote of 3-0 and settled on a shortened line which will barely turn the corner to Rosedale.

The governing body had tabled the proposal earlier in the week following a public hearing at which a number of Rosedale Road property owners registered their objections to paying for a sewer when they already have efficient septic systems. It decided against the sewer as supported by the Board of Health because of the opposition and a lack of proof that septic systems, with one exception, were not functioning properly.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman and Committeeman Stanley C. Snover were absent for both the public hearing and the final vote on the proposal. Committeeman William Marvel, originally tabling the question, joined Thomas P. Cook and John F. Mount in defeating it.

The ordinance covering the new, shortened sewer for Rosedale Road will be introduced on Tuesday at the next regular session of the Committee. As now planned, the sewer would go up Galbreath Drive East, turn the corner and go down Rosedale Road for only two lots.

Also on the agenda for next week's session are public hearings on the assessor's report on the improvement of Van Dyck Road and the sewer running parallel to North Harrison Street across from the Shopping Center. Both projects are completed and assessments in order.

A Parade Turns a "City" Into a Small Town

A parental privilege that the younger generation may consider a recalling with affection and glamour the old days of steam locomotives, circus wagons and home-made ice cream. There's a fair chance that the up-coming generation will indulge in some of the same, specifically on the subject of the annual inspection of the Princeton Fire Department.

It was held Friday evening in a pause between crashing thunder and swags of lightning, the traditional parade down Nassau Street to Olden Avenue. The town was quiet; people indoors during the rain. The Stilletoer and the cyclotron and the electronic computers were presumably quiet too, in their various bits in and around town. There was even no sound from the alterings of genius.

The bands attracted to the rain-soaked streets dressed up children like moths from cocoons in holiday after-supper moods. They were followed leisurely by relaxed and sociable parents. Suddenly, Princeton had become a small American town again.

Firemen of the three companies lined up for review; the cornations waved in the Chief's silver horns. There was a military band and the band of Hamilton Township with a baby drum major and a penchant for "The Saints." The equipment, shiniest perfect, was inspected and approved by members of the Council; firemen and Rescue Squad recognized for another year of faithful service.

There was the feel of Fourth of July celebrations and community sings, if you thought back far enough, or in a remembering esp. the clank of a trolley. Whether you had lived in Princeton 60 years or 20 or two, there was apparent here a vibrant symbol of America.

It's very possible that the small boy who rode his father's shoulders may forget to tell his son that he grew up in the mathematical center of the western world. In the shadow of Operation Mather, but chances are he will recall for him the toy fireman's hat he wore and the shine of the truck and the sound of "The Star Spangled Banner," and probably he will be indulged in his sentiment.

COURT REPORT

Five Sentenced, Charles T. Mangum, 17, of 162 John Street was fined $20 for careless driving by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. Mangum denied the infraction.

In other cases, Frank Petito, Jr., 17, of 89 Galbreath Drive, was fined $15 for driving without a license and Bruce W. Sandvick, 18, of R.D. 1, $10, for having no registration in his possession. Both acknowledged the charges.

In criminal court, Lucius Bell, 25, of 115 Witherspoon Street was fined $25 for not being able to give a good account of himself. Bell, who had been drinking, showed up at Princeton Hospital Saturday, his head covered with cuts. He was unable to say what had happened to him or how he had arrived at the hospital. Doctors used 29 stitches to repair Bell's head.

Sent to the County Jail in Trenton to await action by the Grand Jury, Angelo B. Gonzales, 49, 117 S. Stockton Street, Trenton, was apprehended by Patrolman John Chasko Saturday after Gonzales had tried to bribe Chasko. Gonzales attempted to press $10 into the officer's hand after he had been stopped at Witherspoon and Hulsif Street and Chasko discovered he did not have a driver's license.

Gonzales was given a preliminary hearing in Borough Court by Magistrate Tams who set bail at $500. Unable to raise the money, Gonzales was sent to the County Jail in Trenton.

She's Opposed to Rockefeller.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS: In this week's edition of TOWN TOPICS, I have read the names of the illustrious persons who have recently announced their intention to back Mr. Rockefeller in the presidential campaign.

I am wondering how many of them know that Mr. Rockefeller evidently does not believe in the constitutional principle of separation of church and state. Governor Rockefeller recently signed a bill, passed by the New York legislature, which makes parochial school bus transportation at public expense mandatory throughout the state.

This new law comes as the climax of a long series of legislative concessions to Roman Catholic power. After New York's highest court had ruled that public funds could not be used for this purpose, a referendum was adopted to amend the state constitution.

How can we promise to support and defend the Constitution of the United States as president, when he doesn't support it as governor?

MARY CHARLOTTE MITCHELL
(Mrs. Herbert F. Mitchell Jr.)

Trucks Protested Again

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS: I am releasing for publication a copy of a letter written to the commanding officer of the State Police Barracks at Princeton.

I wish to register my complaint along with Mrs. Knowlton's regarding the hazardous driving conditions created by the Kingston Trap Rock Company trucks. I commute to Princeton and pass the Trap Rock entrance off Laurel Avenue about 8:35 a.m. which seems to be a busy time for traffic. Not only do the trucks coming into the Trap Rock driveway not stop to let a car go by, but neither do the ones coming out of the drive make any attempt to stop and look at traffic, even though there is a stop sign there.

Furthermore, when a car is traveling on Route 518, going north or south, the trucks heading out of or into Laurel Avenue from Route 518 have absolutely no intention of observing the rules of the road and proceed right ahead without stopping.

Perhaps they are of the opinion that since their trucks are bigger than a car, the driver of the car will be afraid and let them do what they please; or, on the other hand, they may just be too lazy to apply their brakes and stop.

When a car is stuck behind one of these trucks going about 5 mph up a hill, the driver has the suddenness to wave the car ahead, as if to indicate no traffic is headed in the opposite direction. This has happened to me several times and not only is it dangerous, but I believe it is also unlawful.

Now that this matter has been given publicity, you can rest assured that the men will be driving cautiously on the look-out for police observation. I hope the Police Department will not judge the existing conditions on this basis, but that they will find a way to put a stop to this menacing condition.

(Mrs. Alan Boyden Jr.)

Proposals to Be Studied

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS: The Princeton United Community Fund is deeply appreciative of the sincere interest evidenced by Mrs. Howard Russell Butler, Jr., Mrs. Douglas Delaney, Mrs. Holmes Forsyth, Mrs. Herbert S. Langford, Mrs. Bradford B. Locke, Walter Van B. Roberts, and Mrs. Allen C. Shenshine in their recent letter to the P.U.C.F. outlining suggested proposals that might be considered to strengthen the organization.

It should be recognized, that any organization such as the P.U.C.F., should welcome constructive criticism, suggestions and proposals at all times, in its all-out efforts to better serve the community and carry out the functions for which it was established.

From the beginning of the Community Fund in Princeton in the late thirties, the organization has grown in stature through its recognition of basic fundamental changes brought about by transition in our economic, social and political life.

The past is a prologue to the future, and upon our experiences and our recognition of fundamental problems brought about by ever changing patterns of community life, the P.U.C.F. will continuously review and assess its operation to better discharge its duties to the community.

At a recent meeting of the P.U.C.F. Board of Trustees, certain basic operational policies were approved to strengthen the organization. The P.U.C.F. Board of Trustees will carefully review the proposals as outlined by the seven dedicated Princeton residents.

the face and then released. Police said the accident happened when Mr. Finley momentarily turned his attention to his son sitting by his side and drifted over into the oncoming line of traffic there he was struck by Mr. Sperling. Both cars were extensively damaged and had to be towed away.

In Parks and Playgrounds. The Princeton Public Library's Children's Department is again planning to sponsor story telling hours in playgrounds and parks during the summer months. The program will run until September 2. The group of volunteers met at the Public Library to discuss plans for the story hour, assemble materials useful in story-telling, and to explore the different methods of telling stories at various age levels.

Mr. Wallace, who served the University for the past 14 years, is a veteran of two world wars. His first responsibility at Princeton was to assist alumni veterans mustered out of service after World War II to obtain positions in business or industry. Mr. Wallace played a major role in developing the University's Work-Study program which finds summer jobs for juniors in their career fields.

A resident of South Orange, Mr. Wallace entered Princeton from Newark Academy where he was president of his class. He was a member of the Princeton class of 1918, but left at the end of his junior year to enter the Naval Academy. He served as a deck officer aboard the Cruiser U.S.S. Columbia during the first World War.

Prior to World War II, Mr. Wallace was active in the investment

tion into an effective working group.

He served for more than seven years on the Lawrence Township Board of Education. Mr. Seely's first route was from Clarksville to Slackwood in 1922—a bus route he had ridden as a child from his Clarksville farm.

A graduate of the Slackwood School, Mr. Seely later attended Rider Business School. In 1925, when Lawrence Township School Number Four was opened, Mr. Seely transported the children—including his own son and daughter, from the Clarksville and Lawrence Station areas to the new school at Bakers Basin.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Seely are popular with the children they transported. Because they often carried the same pupils from the time they entered kindergarten until they graduated from Princeton High School, the Seelys have many real friends among their former bus-riders.

Because the Seely farm in Lawrence Station is famous for its fine crop of strawberries, the Seelys have many of the teachers in the schools he serves have a special treat—fresh strawberries.

Mr. and Mrs. Seely plan to enjoy their retirement on their farm, taking time out for traveling. However, Mr. Seely has said he will be delighted to substitute as a driver if his services are ever needed.

Because Mr. Seely's son, Robert, plans to continue with the bus routes, the children of Lawrence Township will still be waiting for "Mr. Seely's Bus" each school morning in the years ahead.

IN A TIME OF CRISIS, NO "SOFTIES" Mrs. Dorothy K. Couchman sees no evidence of this country becoming a nation of "softies," maintaining that in a time of emergency, it would be impossible to find "even one." For the replies of others (who are somewhat optimistic over the current temper of our people's character), see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Is the United States becoming a nation of "softies," its people interested only in making money and having a good time?

Where asked: Public Library.

James L. Green, 688 Ewing Street, associate professor at the University, Dept. of Engineering. I feel that the country has moved somewhat further than it should have in that direction but the statement, as it is made, is too strong.

Mrs. Dorothy K. Couchman, 188 Nassau Street, owner of secretarial service: It's hard to say. Each generation tends to think that the one before it was soft but it seems to me that each new generation always comes out on top and does even better than the previous one. And let one emergency arise and you won't find one "softy" in the United States regardless of age. Everyone does his part. That's America; that's what has made this country what it is.

William Smith, Dayton, N.J., technician at the Forestal Research Center: I go for the first part—powerful, the whole lot of 'em—but not the second. Some times making money isn't so much fun.

Mrs. Gloria Stewart, S. Clinton Avenue, Trenton, research aide in the University's psychology department: Yes, I would say that is probably a very accurate description of what is going on. Actually, I don't think that is the main thing we have to worry about. I believe the most depressing trend is our tendency to accept the one-world socialist state we seem to be heading for. People are so materially inclined that they forget the basic values of life and the ideals the U.S. stands for.

George L. Mellor, 210 Hamilton Avenue, assistant professor at the University: I would say that people are probably interested in making money and having a good time. But I don't know if this necessarily means people are becoming "soft." It may be that, since material goods are becoming easier to acquire, people exert less effort in their daily work. I think this is evident in today's college student.

Mrs. Eva Schneider, 8 Madison Street, housewife and musician: Oh, yes. Start with high school. What are the kids interested in but clubs, extracurricular activities and sports. Studies just seem to be left by the wayside. And when they graduate and get married, they're still interested only in getting the latest model car and having a comfortable home with all the latest modern conveniences. There are so many things, I could write an essay on it.

however, that your educational institutions should stress the other side of life.

Mrs. Orren Jack Turner, 39 Hamilton Avenue, housewife: Heavens, no, I don't think we're a nation of "softies." Look at what we did yesterday: we got those two satellites in orbit and that takes a lot of mentality. I think like's refusal to cancel his trip to the Orient took a lot of gumption. I think other nations would like to see us be a moral and spiritual leader in the world but I don't think any nation is a leader morally. This country definitely, today, in 1960, is a world leader.

W. G. Mellor, 302 Henry Hall, member of University faculty: No, I don't think so. I suppose, at the end, our economy is trying to achieve a level where the people won't have to work so hard, have plenty of leisure time but will still be able to turn out an abundance of material goods. Consequently, it would be foolish for me to say that one of the goals we are working for is evil. The only danger, I see, would be an unwillingness by the people to make sacrifices if it were necessary for national defense.

David H. Morris, Pennington School, teacher: To a degree, yes. Moral concepts either don't exist or they're not as high as they used to be.

Mrs. Barbara White, 28 Linden Lane, housewife, here since April from Bristol, England: I think the people here are very much like the people at home. There are always a few who are interested in just making money but I haven't noticed that everybody in this country is like that. Most noticeable to me is that what we would term a "working class person," such as a lorry driver, the standard of living for a person similarly employed in this country is much higher. On the other hand, the standard of living is lower here than in England for people who are engineers, as is my husband, or who are similarly employed.

Donald T. Bryant, musical director at the Columbus Boy Choir School: I would say that many times the appearances on the

To correct lisp, Tongue-Tie, "Ehuch" are a thespian problem with me because I wear braces."

The second grade boy who came into the Township speech therapy class did indeed wear braces, but it was obvious to the therapist that his lisp had more complex causes than the steel bridges that filled his mouth.

He joined another second grade boy with a lisp, and a first-grade girl with a "lateral" lisp (she not only said "th," but whistled her "S"s sideways, too.) The three lispers met their teacher for the first time last fall, and by the end of the school term, they were able to hiss out a pure "s" as well as anybody, when they put their minds to it. Work still remains, and perhaps the hardest part—making "s" a habit, so that it comes out unconsciously on the playground, as well as consciously in the speech class—has ahead, but the foundation has been firmly and substantially laid.

Speech therapy classes began formally in November at all four Township schools, and 179 children received help during the year. All Township children were given speech tests and children with defects were assigned to the special classes which met twice a week for about half an hour each time.

Life-long "Scars" a Danger. Lipping is not the only problem, although it is one of the commonest. Stuttering, delayed speech, faulty articulation, deadness, cleft palate, so-called "tongue-tie," all of these are handicaps which therapists believe can scar a child's life. The boy who is jeered because he lisp may become the man whose lisp marks him as unmanly. The girl with slow speech who cannot properly articulate her "L" sounds may be tagged as mentally deficient.

The two speech teachers, Mrs. A. E. Vaurio and Mrs. Donald Purkey, use textbook methods and their own ingenuity to show children how proper sounds should be made. Mrs. Vaurio sits before a mirror with a first-grade girl who has a partially corrected tongue-tie, and some difficulty in listening, although her hearing is perfectly normal.

NOW, BLOW! To help children with cleft palates, speech therapy teachers in Princeton Township schools use all kinds of blowing devices. Mrs. Donald Purkey (left) holds a recorder which the children learn to play, and ping-pong balls which they blow across a table. Her colleague, Mrs. A. E. Vaurio, practices blowing on a pin-wheel. For additional information on the new Township therapy program, see story this page. (Staff Photo.)

They are working on "v", which the girl calls a "boel sound," because when you tuck your lower lip under your teeth and blow, it sounds like an ocean liner. Over and over, the girl and the teacher repeat the sound. Softly and slowly, the girl pronounces "five," "seven," "eleven," "twelve," then she moves on to "x", the "coughing sound."

This little girl had to be taught to listen for sounds before she could articulate them. Mrs. Vaurio teaches her to "hear 'p'" by expelling the sound softly into her ear. They haven't reached the "s" sound yet, but the child has begun to say it correctly all by herself, simply because she has been taught to listen.

Some Teaching Is Private. Children like this little girl, and a boy who has trouble with "r", and another who has a cleft palate, are taught privately because their problems are specialized. Other children meet in groups of two to four.

Mrs. Purkey asks her three lispers whether they'd like to play a game called "Singing, singing." A shout of assent. She draws a big circle on a piece of paper and divides it into about 30 pieces of pie.

Taking turns, the children say "Singing, singing as I go; if I finish, I had on this," jabbing their pencils in a pie segment, filling it in, and passing the paper to the next child. By the time the segments are all filled in, each child has said that "S" tongue-twister about a dozen times.

A young girl with an "L" problem meets Mrs. Purkey all alone. Together they play a game with Mrs. Tongue, in which she "washes her side windows, scrubs her ceiling, sweeps her floor and dusts off the front porch"—that is, the tongue rubs the roof of the mouth, inside of the cheeks, floor of the mouth and sweeps around the lips.

This girl could not move her tongue at all in the game-exercise until Mrs. Purkey taught her. Now, she can move her tongue and pronounce her "L" intelligently—when she thinks about it. This child, incidentally, has an intelligence level considerably above the average, but she might be taken for a sub-normal child because her speech was almost unintelligible.

To help children incorporate their new speech habits into everyday talk, Mrs. Vaurio and Mrs. Purkey teach poems and encourage recitations. The teachers are quick to praise, but quick to point out a mistake: "That was a terrible 's'! I could see your tongue!"

And the sheepish pupil will grin and say his "s" properly, tongue out of sight. It's mostly "he" and "his" in therapy classes, by the way. Mrs. Purkey has five girls and 12 boys, and this proportion is fairly standard in all classes.

For examples of permanent success, the teachers must rely on the past experience of other teachers, because the Township program is relatively new. Mrs. Vaurio recalls a child whom she tested in the school-wide speech test last fall. She passed over the child as a normal chatterbox who did not need help. Later, she discovered that the girl had been for many months a pupil of Mrs. Leonard Newton in a pilot speech-therapy program begun the previous year by the school system.

 exterior would be that, but when the chips are down, the American people can stand on their own and take it. Everybody likes to have fun, but at the right time, everybody would do the right thing. However, I feel we always ought to be on our guard against becoming too self-satisfied and complacent.

Mrs. Ann Nanouso, 28 Pine Street, housewife. The people in this country work harder and they play harder than they do in Scotland where I come from. Life is much easier in the United States. Everybody can afford all the luxuries and I think that may have a lot to do with it. But you can't call us softies, the fighting our boys did proves that. It just takes them longer to get mad than most people. In some ways, I think the whole thing is that people aren't interested in politics any more. Back in Scotland, the people are much more interested in politics and what is going on. They read a lot more. The people here leave everything up to the politicians.

Charles H. Rogers, 28 Haslet Avenue, naturalist. To some extent it's true, but it doesn't apply to everybody, certainly. However, I think, on the whole, we have too much soft living. We expect the government to do too much for us. This cradle-to-the-grave security isn't good. One of the best condensed bits of economic philosophy I know of is, "There is no free lunch."

tion by a religious agency of any denomination. "The objections were in no way directed at the Catholic Church or any particular church," Mr. Blaicher emphasized.

Following a meeting at which the Trustees of the Fund accepted "with regret" the withdrawal of Catholic Charities, Mr. Blaicher commented that "the question of whether any denominational welfare agency, whether or not it is providing service on a non-sectarian basis, should be included in a community fund is fundamental." He added that the whole community should consider this question in the coming year. The Catholic group announced its intention to support federated giving, made application to the Fund and was admitted in April. Both the Fund and Catholic Charities indicated that they do not consider the withdrawal permanent and expressed the hope that Catholic Charities will participate in future campaigns.

Review Asked. The statement announcing the withdrawal, issued jointly by the Diocesan Administrative Board and the Diocesan Lay Advisory Board, asked for a "serious review" of every agency presently in the fund, to insure that "only those agencies giving dollar value for total welfare services" are included. It said the review should include investigations of each agency's identification, program, resources, fee-schedules, duplication of services, administrative costs, unit costs, caseload, referrals and relationship to other agencies.

Dr. Osgood, the author of "The Voice of England," a literary history of England published in 1935, is an authority on the relationship between English literature and the classics. In 1905, Dr. Osgood came to Princeton as one of the 50 original teachers who initiated the "preceptorial system."

Dr. Osgood was English Department Chairman for eight years and in 1932 was appointed Holmes Professor of Belles Lettres, the University's oldest endowed chair. He retired in 1937 to devote his time to research and writing.

FUND LOSSES MEMBER

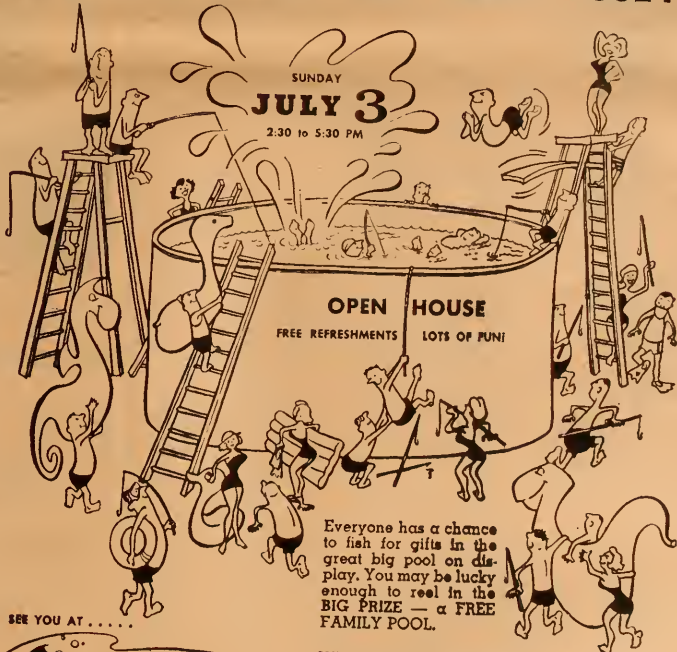

Catholic Charities Withdraws. In a move described as "for the common good," Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Trenton has withdrawn from the Princeton United Community Fund for the 1960 campaign. The Catholic group, which joined the Fund only this year, reported that its action was to prevent losses by the UCF as a whole "from those who have indicated their unwillingness to support the fund because of the presence of our agency."

According to Fred M. Blaicher, Fund president, there appears to have been unwritten agreement when the fund was formed in 1957 that no religious groups would be associated with it. Princeton residents who have been active in the Fund for many years have objected to participa-

All of us who are interested and engaged in community efforts in all areas of health, recreation and welfare must be willing to re-examine and be re-examined continually in our efforts to best serve the public interest," he explained.

Both the Fund president and Catholic Charities stated their devotion to continuing community cooperation. In his statement, Mr. Blatcher said, "We must accept the challenge presented by the Catholic Charities and in a spirit of community cooperation find the solutions to our common problems."

In a similar tone, the Catholic group stated its hope that it will find in the future "peaceful partnership in a community cooperation to bring the best to our neighbors." It concluded that differences and misunderstandings should be faced "to clear the way for progress and growth."

Report from THE MAYOR

Safety — Western Style, Twenty-nine hundred miles of driving, so far, produced a renewed sense of the diversity of this great country. Crossing vast open territory where 50 miles often separates settlements causes reflection on the contrast offered in Princeton, where urban renewal and planning must take place in a community where 92 percent of the land is built upon, and every attempt to ease traffic or pedestrian problems causes serious dislocation. Ideas which might well be considered in Princeton are plentiful along the American highway. In Oregon, Wisconsin, for example, the 35 mile per hour speed limit signs contain this legend: "15 miles per hour when children are present." Even more important, it was clear that the local motorists respected that policy.

In town after town, it was obvious that pedestrians had rights. Often motorists could be seen coming to a dead halt to show courtesy to men, women and children who had braved an intersection.

Our New Jersey traffic experts say it "can't be done," but countless communities out here have succeeded in moving traffic efficiently, and at the same time provided pedestrians with the safety of "wait" and "walk" signals.

Scene Note. Westerners are justifiably proud of the great natural beauty of this section of the country, and Councilman Dick Colman will be pleased to know that everyone out here shows appreciation and concern for trees!

When Mayors Meet. Meeting a colleague at the foot of Mount Rushmore for a 6 A. M. breakfast with students from 43 states and several countries who are working at this tremendous monument was a real experience. The Mayor of Keystone, South Dakota, is also employed by the local radio station over which we made a broadcast.

Governor's Conference. The Conference of Governors at Glacier National Park in Montana opened Monday on a note of interest to Princetonians—a re-appraisal of education at all levels. Educators pleaded with the Governors to establish a sense of urgency about providing the facilities for higher education enrollment that will triple in the next ten years.

Another Conference. An additional event of interest taking place in Montana is the Convention of North American Indians. Joyce Little Bull, age 10, is attending and chatting with the Mayor and his family. Joyce lives in a tarpaper shack on the plains and hopes she will be able to attend high school — her problems, too, center around housing and education.

The "Wild" West. Sgt. David Long of the Montana National Guard, while touring the Mayor and his family through a Blackfeet reservation, remarked: "The West has changed — most of the Indians are now cowboys!"

A Real Reporter

Two and a half years ago, Mayor Raymond F. Maie announced that he planned to write a weekly column for newspaper releases. Despite occasional quick trips out of town, plus one flying six-day visit abroad, he never missed a deadline.

Last week, the Mayor and his family began an automobile trip west with the Democratic national convention in Los Angeles as their ultimate destination. En route, he planned to attend the Governors' Conference in Glacier National Park, Mont.

His intention had been to wire his column back to Princeton, but on Monday was informed that the high volume of newspaper copy being filed from the conference might delay receipt of his weekly report. So he telephoned it to Mrs. Jane McGrath, who typed and delivered it in time for Monday night's deadline. "Fortunately," Mrs. McGrath remarked, "I could take it in shorthand."

The directions show — and we must confess that they show children — how you can do this with a partner, swinging the cord out in a wider arc to accommodate the two of you. Costs 94 cents. Good luck.

Pitch-back, as you probably know by now, is a net that pitches a ball right back at you if you throw it good and hard at the net. Looks like a large up-ended card table with taut nylon netting and a top. Believes dedication of being pitcher to earnest Little Leaguers engaged in practice.

The Nudniks, who have appeared from time to time on ashtrays, matchbooks and the like, have several different milieus. Zunder's presents, in white with black drawings, a Nudnik album with appropriate front sketch which we shall leave for you to investigate; a locked diary entitled, "My Blooming Year and How I Grew It," and a package of greeting cards.

The Tub Foot Dock explains itself by title and all you really need to know is size. What we have here is a flexible plastic toy about a foot long, overall, and four or five inches high.

On its flat back there are suction cups which grasp the side of bathtub or swimming pool. Attach the Dock right at water level and you have a regular fish marina, with three docks, fishing boat, cabin cruiser, speed boat, two rowboats with oars and a sailboat.

Each boat is about three inches long. The whole set costs $1, and you'll never get him out of the bathtub now.

Instrumental music will be under the direction of Frederick J. Zenone, who has been in charge of a similar program in Levittown, Penna. He will be in charge of teaching at Littlebrook, Riverside and Johnson Park.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wallace of 194 Clow Avenue will teach first grade. A graduate of UCLA, she has taught in California and at the Chapin School here.

TEACHERS WILL STUDY

At University's Institute. Over 120 outstanding teachers from secondary schools and colleges in 31 states and two foreign countries are in Princeton this summer for six-week summer institutes in chemistry, mathematics and physics at Princeton University. The institutes are designed to stimulate superior teachers to provide leadership in their own institutions. The three programs will run through August 5.

Dr. Clark E. Bricker of the University's department of chemistry will direct the chemistry program, which will consist of two 75-minute lectures each morning and a three-hour laboratory period three afternoons each week. Dr. Albert W. Tucker of the University's department of mathematics, will direct the math program, which will emphasize the introduction into the secondary school curriculum of the study of probability. Dr. Aaron Lemonick of Haverford will direct the physics institute in which teachers will discuss the new course developed by the Physical Science Study Commission.

Three teachers from the Princeton area have been chosen to

WATER'S JUST AS GOOD

Ski Club Plans Outing. Members of the Princeton Ski Club, temporarily without snow, have scheduled a water skiing trip to Lake George for the weekend of July 9.

Ernest R. Gilmont, a member of the National Ski Patrol and a former professional ski instructor, has been elected president of the club. Other new officers are Miss Lore Jungster, vice-president; Miss Barbara Lind, secretary, and Ray Hallows, treasurer. New members of the board of directors are Miss Anna Brooks, Frank Curran, LeBaron Foster, Brian Faughnan and Miss Janet Oliver.

YMCA PROGRAM TO OPEN

For Summer Teens. The Summer Teens, a program for Princeton-area teenagers sponsored by the YM and YWCA, will be held at the Y building on Aviation Place through August 19. Registration can be made now at the Y.

Among the instructors for the program are Richard Lannahan, who will teach tennis on Thursday evenings; Conrad Outbrodt, who will meet with boys' "jam" session, (also on Thursday); and Thomas Teng, who will coach hall-room dancing on Tuesday nights.

On Mondays, Mrs. Constance Bonetto, an art teacher, will conduct a class in oils and charcoal, and Henry Drury will teach bridge. An instructor will also be on hand to teach sculpture and copper work in conjunction with Mrs. Bonetto's art class.

Mrs. Georgine Hall and Walter Sorg of the YM and YWCA will conduct the Friday evening activities, which include coed swims, "splash parties" and a formal dance July 15. Trips to a Yankee baseball game at the 22nd, to the Music Circus on August 3 and a beach party the 17th are included in the planned activities.

A free copy of the brochure, "Vacation in New Jersey," may be obtained from the State Promotion Section, Department of Conservation and Economic Development, 529 East State Street, Trenton, 25.

There are over 100 full color photographs and useful charts depicting beaches, sporting activities, state parks and recreational facilities, historic buildings, summer theatres, and events of interest. Over 55 resort towns are listed in the vacation guide with the highlights of each, accommodations available and area transportation.

Added features in this year's guide include a mileage chart for the convenience of travelers from every part of the country, a detailed chart for fishermen showing where and when various species of fish are biting, and a map of New Jersey State forests and state parks for hikers. There is also a useful chart for boating enthusiasts using the Intracoastal Waterway, indicating in nautical miles the distance between marinas and harbors that offer a safe place to tie up.

NEW BUSINESS PLANNED

At 100 Nassau Street, A photography and art center will open in September at 100 Nassau Street in the building occupied for many years by Nill's Bakery. John C. Borden of Cold Soil Road said this week that he will operate the new business with Saul Libsohn of Roosevelt. Mrs. Borden is also backing the venture as a stockholder.

To be known, according to present plans, as The Photography and Art Center, the new business will stock supplies of all kinds in these two fields. A gallery for the exhibition of outstanding photographic work, as well as various forms of art objects, is also planned. Instruction in the two fields will be offered. Mr. Borden, a Princeton resident since 1957, has long been interested in photography while following a business career. His primary activity has been as a director and assistant treasurer of Borden Mills, Inc., of New York. Mr. Libsohn is a well-known free lance photographer whose work has appeared in numerous magazines.

BUILDING TO MERSHON

Under Terms of Will. Sole ownership of the 140-44 Nassau Street building has been acquired by Irving W. Mershon, real estate and insurance broker who trades as the O. H. Hubbard Agency.

Mr. Mershon said this week that he had assumed title to the property under the terms of the will of the late Lulla M. Hubbard. The First National Bank was the executor.

The commercial property has a 50-foot frontage on Nassau Street. Hall's, Inc., occupies some 2500 square feet at No. 140, while Mr. Mershon's office has 900 square feet at No. 142. The Betty Wright Shop, at No. 144, has 800 square feet.

and will be determined upon completion of an audit now in progress.

Several large industrial companies have already indicated interest in acquiring portions of the property for the construction of new research facilities, according to Morris M. Townsend, president of the purchasing firm, which is making its first venture into real estate. The research park tract lies between Route 1 and Route 206 and straddles Princeton Pike.

GETS NEW POSITION

With First National Bank. Miss Mary C. Dennen has been elected an Assistant Cashier of the First National Bank of Princeton. Her election took place at the June meeting of the Bank's Board of Directors.

A graduate of Princeton High School, Miss Dennen attended Miss Pollock's Business School in Trenton and has attended night school courses conducted by the Truett Corporation of the American Institute of Banking. She has been employed by the Bank since 1942 and has been involved in all its commercial departments during that time.

LAND DEAL CLOSED

Lockheed Buys 210 Acres. Lockheed Electronics Company has completed its acquisition of 210 acres of land fronting on Route 1 in West Windsor Township. The subsidiary of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation announced the purchase earlier and plans to relocate its headquarters on the new site.

The firm, which has facilities in Plainfield, Metuchen and Bedminster as well as Los Angeles, does not plan to develop the property until 1961 when work will begin on the first buildings of a large complex. Lockheed will ultimately consolidate most of its New Jersey operations at the site, which is the old Arthur West Farm near Port Mercer and Clarkville.

In a message to D. F. Sanders, president of the firm, marking the closing of the transaction, Senator Clifford B. Case noted that the company's expansion in New Jersey "should add much to the state's prime status as the nation's research center." The actual property transfer took place in the firm's Plainfield headquarters.

AS THE PLAYGROUNDS OPENED: Hot-weather activities of many kinds were offered Princeton children as the 1960 playground season opened this week. At the top, Chris and Mary Alice Golden, who live at 46 Linden Lane, try out a slide at the new Graver Avenue playground. Loren Wallace, 191 Mount Lucas Road, and Johnny Gaudioso, 90 Birch Avenue, are content with the swings at the same location. A game of horseshoes claims the attention of Bruce Campbell, 105 Leigh Avenue, and Robert Kennedy, 129 Birch Avenue, at the Valley Road School. In all, ten such play centers will be in operation five days a week for the next two months. (Staff Photos.)

The second two-week period has been fully subscribed, but there are places available for the last two periods. Boys 6 to 12 will be accepted, with girls aged 6 and 7 to be placed in the Pa-poose camp.

During the present two-week session, there are 30 papoose boys and girls, and 45 older campers. Swimming, arts and crafts, cookouts, games and a trip to Washington Crossing Park will be included in the camp's activities. George Povallitis is camp director.

The campers have been divided into tribes of ten children and a counselor, and are clearing and building individual camp sites. The development of the sites involves building camp articles from native materials.

TRAVEL SURVEY PLANNED
By Penn Jersey Group. About 70,000 households in the Trenton-Philadelphia - Camden region travel habits and transportation needs by the Penn Jersey Transportation Study, an agency set up by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, the Pennsylvania and New Jersey highway departments and certain counties in both states, including Mercer.

Each family to be interviewed during the next six months will be notified by the group as to the date the interviewer will call, and will be asked to keep a trip record before the interview. In addition to the interview program, the group will study economic establishments, public transit systems and truck and taxi movements, and will conduct roadside interviews with drivers.

The data derived by the surveys will be coded for processing on electronic computers, and "mathematical models" will be set up to represent the nine-county region's appearance under a number of different transportation systems.

DOUBLEHEADER SCHEDULED

Holiday Ball Games Planned. A July 4 doubleheader, as traditional a part of Independence Day programs as fireworks, has been arranged by the YMCA and B. E. Bergesen Jr., baseball commissioner. Princeton High School's Harris Field will be the scene of the action, with the first ball scheduled to be pitched at 1:30.

Midget All-Star teams from the National and American Leagues will participate in the first game of the doubleheader. Barney Houghton will manage the American entry, with the National directed by Frank Siebth.

A game between the Junior League All-Stars will conclude the program. Siebth, Robert Sinkler, James Wheeler and H. W. Boynton will serve as managers. The all-star game will open the Junior League season, with contests to be played nightly thereafter.

Opening ceremonies will include presentation of the colors and playing "The Star Spangled Banner." The games are open to the public without charge.

Under Bergesen's guidance, more than 300 boys from 2 through 15 are playing baseball in Princeton this season. A pre-league training program was adopted this year for nine year-olds.

Midget League activity was open to boys 12 to 15, with a dozen teams sponsored by various community organizations, while four teams in the Junior League draw from boys 13 to 15. About 45 men have provided leadership in the three programs.

THE BEST NUMBER to call for classified advertising is WA 4-2201.

23 GAMES FOR TIGERS

Basketball Schedule Set. Although it is five months before the basketball season opens, Princeton University took advantage of the summer lull to make with its 1960-61 schedule. The Tigers will defend their Ivy championship next winter in 14 league games which should make unusually interesting going.

Whether these contests will draw Dillon Gymnasium's capacity is another matter. For two years now, Cappy Cappon has had his team in the thick of the Ivy race right down to the wire — winning the title last winter after barely being edged out in it in March, 1959.

Only once in those 14 home games was the gym a solid sell-out — and that was for the Cornell contest in February, 1959, which was nationally televised. Curiosity over the TV proceedings was responsible.

Will the degree of apathy that keeps a relatively small gymnasium from being sold out while a team is taking dead aim on a championship continue? It's as hard to tell as it is to determine the reason for the rows of empty seats.

Situation Reversed. A year ago, Cappon began with one veteran and four big holes to fill. Next winter, his problem will be mathematically reversed, with four veterans returning and one senior lost by graduation.

The loss, however, is the biggest the veteran Tiger coach has known in many years, since the departed senior is Captain Jim Brangan. Brangan was largely credited with providing the culture of play and leadership that fused "four guys named Joe" — to use Cappon's words in naming the rest of his team at the start of the season — into a fascinating, dark-horse victor.

Next December, a veteran quartet of Captain Don Swan, Pete Campbell, Mike Burton and Al Kneemuelen (the latter ineligible for the last half of the 1960 season) will be joined by a fifth starter selected from among several possibilities. Indications are it will be an unusually interesting year.

The upcoming schedule will send the Tigers into the annual Queen City Tournament for the first time as part of their preparation for the Ivy campaign. The opposition will be two of the east's perennially top teams, Connecticut and host Canisius, and Drake, a mid-western quiet. Play will be at Buffalo on December 31 and January 2.

Other eastern leaders, notably Lafayette, Navy, Temple and Villanova, will provide December action, while the first trip to West Point to meet Army in a dozen years is set for January 28, 1961. The first league opponent is Columbia in early January.

The complete schedule:
Dec. 3, Lafayette; 6, Temple; 9, Navy; 12, Villanova, away; 16, Rutgers, away; 31, Queen City Tournament at Buffalo.

Jan. 2, Queen City Tournament; 4, Columbia, away; 7, Cornell, away; 13, Brown; 14, Yale; 28, Army, away; 31, Colgate.

Feb. 4, Pennsylvania; 10, Brown, away; 11, Yale, away; 17, Columbia, 18, Cornell; 24, Harvard, away; 25, Dartmouth, away.

In the girls 15 and under tournament, Elizabeth Kelly defeated Francis Mack by scores of 6-1, 6-0, to finish first. Six girls entered.

The second phase of the summer series began Monday and includes 28 players in Men's and Women's Junior division. This division is for the 18 and under age bracket. The finals will be played Friday on the University Courts.

On Tuesday, July 8, women's singles will begin at the Church Courts 4:30 and will continue through the week. Those interested in competing must register by Saturday at noon at the YMCA office or at the Courts' bulletin board.

Dates for future tournaments are: men's singles, Monday, July 11; mixed doubles, Monday, July 18; men's doubles, Monday, July 20. In each case the registration deadline is the Saturday before the starting date. The entry fee for adults is $1 and is used to defray trophy expenses.

In Goodwill Tennis Tourney. Sixteen-year-old Dede Shipway won her first adult tennis tournament Sunday when she defeated Mrs. Dorothy Katz, 6-3, 6-1, in the final round of the fourth annual Goodwill Tennis Tournament sponsored by the New Jersey State Tennis Association. In the men's division James Cryan of Trenton won the title, defeating Herman Gluck, a Princeton graduate student, 6-3, 6-1. Gluck had edged Irwin Vas, 6-7, 6-3, to reach the final round. A total of 24 persons entered the Goodwill Tourney this year, which ran for two days on Princeton University's Brookway Courts. The Witherspoon Tennis Club of Princeton acted as host during the tourney. Edward Holder, President of the State Tennis Association, presented gold-plated trophies to the winners and runners-up in each division at the conclusion of their matches.

Interspersed Christian Fellowship of New York is sponsoring the holiday weekend trip to Princeton and Philadelphia for about 40 students. They will split for lunch, with half going to the Church and the other half to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Engstrom, and then tour the University in the afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Straughan Gettler were guests of honor at a reception, held Sunday at Wyman House. The Rev. Mr. Gettler will soon assume the post of minister of the South Nassau Unitarian Church on Long Island. The trustees and council of the Unitarian Church gave the recep-

RACE NARROWS

As Three Teams Win Twice. A final race for three of the four first division teams for the past week served to narrow the competition slightly in the Men's Softball League. The pace-setting Sportsmen won twice, as did Plainsboro and Green Gables. Sannino's split and Teague's lost its only contest to drop further behind.

Green Gables moved from fifth to third in the standings by taking a pair of close contests, 7-5 and 6-5, against Sannino's and 6-5 over Sannino's. A two-run last-inning rally brought the first triumph. Another pair of close contests in the last inning against Sannino's meant the difference between victory and defeat.

Roe Watson hurled Plainsboro to a 4-3 decision over Sannino's last Tuesday, getting credit for a three-hitter as the victors jumped off to a four-run lead and then hung on. Tuesday night saw the league runners-up score four in the fourth and three more in the fifth to turn back Leo's, 8-2. Butch Chambers was the winning pitcher.

Meanwhile, the league-leading Sportsmen had it all their way as they raised their season's mark to a fine 12-3. Teague's was a 1-1 victory last week and Circle Esso took a 10-3 hammering on Tuesday. Seven runs in the first two innings allowed that one.

Harry Kahny was the winner on both occasions. In a make-up game last Wednesday, Sannino's collected nine hits while trimming Teague's, 4-1, leading throughout after a two-run first. For a list of upcoming games, see Calendar of the week (page 14.)

PAC SEEKS FIRST WIN

After a Tie, Two Defeats. The Princeton Athletic Club will be aiming for its first victory of the Tri-County season this Thursday night after a deadlock and two losses in its first three games. Montgomery Township will provide the opposition at 8:15 on the high school's Harris Field, while the tie against Hightstown-Cranbury will be replayed here next Wednesday at the same hour.

South Brunswick defeated the Princeton entry Tuesday night on the strength of a grand slam by Bill Pagano. Starter Vince McCord was the victim of a five-run first, which also included a long triple.

Manager Steve Hogarty had a bad day, seeing the first PAC run on a steal of home and then hitting for the circuit in his next turn at bat. Dick Berger's single and Bruce Sandvik's triple accounted for the losers' third run. Against Hightstown-Cranbury last week, Dick Olson fanned seven for PAC and Bob Chibbaro got a pair of hits. The contest ended as a scoreless deadlock, however, necessitating a replay.

BRAVES LOSE FIRST GAME

In Girls Softball League. In the closing game of the season on Bedford Field Monday, Dot Moore limited the hitless-outfield Braves to five hits as ETS scored the losers, 1-0. Also on Monday, on 95 Field, Thorne's strengthened its hold on the place by outlasting Ideal Beauty, 15-10.

ETS scored the game's only run in the sixth inning on successive singles by Fletcher Dot More, Jerry Meyer and Millie Trine. Defensively, Betty Koste played a fine game at shortstop for the winners. Beverly Muhlatt lost it for the Braves.

Thorne's batters raked Ideal Beauty in the regular season, hitting and scoring in every inning. Including six in the fifth frame, Jane Harris of Thorne's hit the only homer, Ideal Beauty was able to garner only four hits out of three Thorne pitchers but took advantage of wildness to score eight of their 10 runs on two hits and eight walks. Marion Fugitt was the winning pitcher.

The standings midway in the 12-week schedule:

	W.	L.	P.
Braves	5	1	.833
Thorne's	4	2	.667
ETS	2	4	.333
Ideal Beauty	1	5	.167

Works equally well whether nails are steel hard or paper thin, too! Essential in cases of "problem nails" to preserve the nail benefits gained from taking internal preparations.
